

Call for Papers

Authors are welcome to submit original and unpublished papers that have not simultaneously been submitted to other journals..

Science and Technology is an annual journal issued by the School of Engineering at the Universidad de Palermo. This publication covers different developments in various fields of interest, such as telecommunication, electronics, computer science, artificial intelligence, sustainable engineering, urban ecology, industries and industrial processes, information technologies and engineering education.

The journal includes various essays, summaries and reviews of research results, and meritorious papers by graduates, scholars and researchers from the Universidad de Palermo and different universities of the country and overseas.

In order to ensure the quality of the materials to be published, a Review Committee has been formed to assess the different works through a meticulous peer review process.

Science and Technology (ISSN 1850-0870) is listed in the Latindex Directory and Catalogue and will be soon included in Dialnet and EBSCO.
